VOL. XVIII.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, APRIL 15, 1890.

NO. 13

Happy Jack Grows Melancholy.

(To the Editor of the Interior Journal.)
We have heard a great deal from old folks about the many changes that have come round in the last 50 years. There have been lots of them. Some very sad ones. There are the telephone and the telegraph and the same old "tell-tale." He hasn't changed much. He still tries to beat the telegraph office getting the news. He can talk a heap, but he can't beat lightning. I got a dispatch the other day and when he saw me with it in my hand and he didn't know what it was, it made him look like he was on the "dependent list." Lord, how mad it made him when the first dispatch was received in Stanford! "My occupation is gone," said he. When one of our lawyers went down to Louisville a number of years ago to play Hamlet at Macaulay's, it had such a serious effect on him that he was never well afterwards, and that was a good deal the way with the tell-tale and the telegraph.

The old "Bruce" plow has yielded to the Champion and Avery; N. O. sugar has given place to the refined brown; the old-fashioned loaf, baked as hard as a thousand of bricks, has surrendered to the granulated. We have almost quit tapping the trees in spring-time, because we couldn't get the "woodman to spare that tree." The annual "stirring off" just across the lane from our dear old home I shall ever remember with gladness; and the kindness of Aunt Katie's sweet face, as she filled a saucer for her little rose-cheeked daughter and myself I shall love to think about always. Aunt Katie has gone home long years ago. I see her little girl now, sometimes. She is growing old, and I am too. Her grand-children are growing up around her and I can see her eyes sparkle with her love for them. When I see how much love there is in the world for its people, I almost forget my loneliness. I remember

"There is mercy in every place
And mercy's encouraging thought,
Gives even affliction a grace,
And reconciles man to his lot."

Has the mysterious intruder in his insatiable thirst for "change" invaded your household and with his unquenchable claim carried to the grave one whom you had learned to fondly regard as the life of your life? Has she left no little one as a reminder of herself? If so, to you is left the eternal pain that only death can relieve; that only memory can sweeten, the memory of the loveliest spirit, the finest nature, the truest heart. These you could once in the truest sense call yours. Your everlasting gratitude follows this noble woman to her grave. Remember, God gave her to you and death can't take her away. She may have been gone for years, but she is yet your best company. You may be often alone with no one but a friendly cat around, but you prefer being sometimes alone, rather than undertake to entertain boorish company.

Sometimes when you get to thinking about how big the world is and how many people there are in it, and that some one stands between you and every one else, you get lonesome, yet there are many comforts to be found and enjoyed in absolute solitude. To you the world is not all the time a "banquet hall deserted." The twittering song of the innocent little bird; the green sward that carpets the earth's face; the flower that beckons the mountain-top in spring-time; the sun that brightens the darkest day; the sky that "glows in beauty," with its "starry eyes that look on the sea," all teach you over and over again and again that the society of mankind is but a small part of the companionship that God has given mortals here below. Then when you grow moody you have the happy consolation of knowing that your lonely situation screens your sad presence from prying curiosity. We must abide all these changes. Some one must suffer. The clouds of sorrow must weep and the weeds of mourning flourish somewhere. Why not round about those where there is no eye to pity? But when I sat down I didn't think of getting off on this sentimental strain. The truth is it's a cloudy day and rainy, as usual of late, and as I have nothing to do but think, I just write what I think about first.

Senator Vance tells the following yarn: There was a camp meeting held last year in the immediate neighborhood of my home in Charlotte. Among the many colored people present was Aunt Nina, who was noted for the length and breadth of her prayers, in which she never failed to make mention of her old master, who was too much given to drink. On this particular occasion, after having disposed of all the rest of creation she was more than usually fervent in appeals in his behalf, requesting as a special favor that he be saved from a drunkard's grave at last, and accompanied the request with this irresistible appeal: "Oh, Lord, how would it look, him in hell, with his bad head, and drunk at that?"

—Miss Lucy A. Jackson has been appointed postmaster at Fariston and Ellen Russell at Bush's store, both in Laurel county.

DEATHS' DOINGS.

—After a long and painful illness death came to the relief of Mrs. Kate Cook Huffman, wife of Dr. Wm. Huffman, at her home in Lancaster, Friday night. She was nearly 50 years of age and as Rev. Mr. Frank said in his beautiful discourse over the remains in the crowded Christian church, Sunday afternoon, she had been in the service of the Lord 37 years, having confessed His Name at the early age of 13. Mrs. Huffman was a sister of S. R. Cook and a half-sister of Messrs. J. M. and T. V. Cook, and was raised in this county. Besides a fond husband, four children are left to sorrow over an irreparable loss, and in their affliction the warmest sympathy is extended, though in this dark hour consolation can only come by a firm reliance on the Savior and in the belief that He does all things well. The deceased was a member of the Christian Aid Society, which has done so much good in many ways, and her sisters turned out in a body to attend the funeral. They also prepared a memorial window in the church as a small token of their esteem. After the sermon the procession, largely augmented by friends from Lincoln and Boyle, slowly moved to the beautiful cemetery, where the green sod had been broken to receive another to the bosom of mother earth; and there the frail body of wife, mother, sister and friend was gently laid to rest till the resurrection morn. May it bring a reunited family around the Throne of God, never again to be separated.

—Col. W. S. Elkin, after an eventful life of nearly 71 years, passed peacefully away Saturday evening at 6:30. He was down town Thursday and Friday, he got up and dressed as usual but feeling badly shortly afterward, laid down, though nothing serious was thought. In fact to within a few moments of his death, he was cheerful and joked as usual with his sister, Mrs. J. M. McRoberts, Jr. It is supposed that a heart trouble was the immediate cause of his death, but his stomach was in a fearful condition. Col. Elkin was one of the best known men in this section and of him it can be truly said he had no enemy but himself. A man of fine sense and a natural wit, he was a very entertaining conversationalist and in any crowd he was the centre of attraction. He had traveled a great deal, was a good judge of human nature and could size a man up as readily as anybody. Fifty years ago, this year, Col. Elkin was united in marriage to Miss Wallace of Jefferson county, and she, one year his senior, survives him. They raised a large family of children, of whom T. S. W. W., G. S., M. F., A. K. and John L. Elkin and Mrs. O. P. Huffman are still living and they were present yesterday when all that was mortal of a loving and indulgent father was consigned to the grave in Lancaster Cemetery. The funeral sermon was preached at his late residence at 1 o'clock yesterday by Rev. George Hunt, after which the mournful procession to the tomb was taken up. The death of Col. Elkin will cause a pang of regret in many a bosom besides those of his family and a general hope that after life's titful fever he sleeps well.

—Dr. Daniel P. White, head of the firm of White, Brown & White, proprietors of the Green River Tobacco Warehouse, died at Louisville, Saturday. This from the Inter-State News is highly appreciated, even if the editor did draw on his imagination to a considerable extent. The INTERIOR JOURNAL is one of the best papers that comes to this office. It is clear of typographical errors and every issue is "chuck" full of news. Its editor is a bold and fearless writer, and the coming of his paper is hailed with pleasure. When Mr. Walton took charge of it 15 years ago it had about "frazzled" out, but from the start it has made money under his management. At this time there is not a better established county paper nor one that has better backing in the State than the INTERIOR JOURNAL.

A sad eyed man walked into a store in Belmont the other day, says the Janesville Gazette, and plunking down a $10 note, tearfully said: "Just four years ago today I stole a pair of $4 shoes from your store. The matter has been preying up on my mind, but my pride prevented me from confessing. I can stand it no longer. Take your pay out of this $10 bill." The merchant, of course, was delighted to meet such a penitent, contrite soul and gave the man $6 and he departed with a light heart. The $10 bill was a very finely executed counterfeit. The next conscience stricken individual that presents himself at that store will be thrown into the river with neatness and dispatch.

—In the Winchester scramble for the post-office Mr. Clarkson said the fact that Simpson had held the office for five years was against him, as it was not the policy of the Post-office Department to appoint any one who had held office under former republican administrations. "The fellows," said he, "who have not been sucking the Federal teat are the ones who should be given a chance now."

Prohibition Meeting.

At a meeting of the prohibitionists of Lincoln county held in Stanford April 12th, 1890, John O. Neal was on motion made chairman and P. L. Simpson acted as secretary. The following resolutions were presented and unanimously passed:

Resolved 1. That we approve the call for a State convention, to be held in Lexington May 15, 1890.

2. That J. T. Hackley, A. W. Carpenter, Charles Powell, B. F. Powell, J. Q. Montgomery and any prohibitionist who may go are hereby appointed delegates to said convention.

3. That we hereby declare, as heretofore, in favor of prohibition in its strictest sense.

4. That although defeated at the February election by the free use of money and whisky, we are still opposed to the saloon and all its attendant evils.

5. That in future elections we will support only such men as are opposed to the traffic in intoxicating liquors and are in full sympathy with the principles of prohibition.

6. That we cordially invite every friend of temperance and prohibition in our county to unite with us in our efforts to banish intemperance from our land and thus promote the glory of God and the good of man.

7. We regard "high license regulation" as a direct co-partnership with the saloon.

8. That the source and cause of crime, ignorance and poverty can never be made just and honorable by legal sanction.

On motion it was resolved to make nominations for county offices to be filled at the August election and county court day in May was agreed upon as the time to consider said nominations.

The chair appointed the following as a committee to select suitable persons to present to the May meeting for nomination, viz: J. Q. Montgomery, J. T. Hackley, Drs. Bourne, Bronaugh and Traylor, L. G. Gooch, J. P. Bastin, Robt. Davis, F. Edmiston, E. S. Powell and James Dudderar, Sr.

The secretary was directed to have these proceedings published in the INTERIOR JOURNAL and Southern Journal.

Adjourned to meet again May court day at the court-house in Stanford.

—The agricultural department reports that the average condition of the wheat crop, taking the whole country through is 81 per cent.

—B. R. Pollock won the first prize of $160 at the telegraphers' tournament in New York by sending 260 words in five minutes. One lady sent 217 words in the same time and got $90.

—F. R. Wright sold to Will Harris 47 ewes and lambs at $4.50 per head for ewes, lambs thrown in. J. H. Sagaser bought 34 head of stock hogs at 4 cts. per pound.—Shelbyville News.

—The following items are from the last Hubble letter, received too late for publication: Sam Harris sold some corn belonging to his brother Reuben's estate at $2 a barrel. Spence Hubble sold to William Hubble a 3-year-old jack for $700.

Mrs. Catherine Blackberry has new potatoes raised by her this season. W. M. Greener delivered 50 bushels of Irish potatoes at Stanford at 25 cts.

—A correspondent from Harlan says that "It is the opinion of a good many soldiers as well as citizens that Judge Boyd is too timid for a mountain judge and it is the opinion of your correspondent that he was never built for one."

This is the first time the judge was ever accused of timidity.

—By a decision of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals a Virginian's daughter by a colored woman gets $10,000 worth of property.

Harrodsburg.

—The Rev. C. R. Jones, of the Southern Presbyterian church, a prominent and well known divine of Frankfort, is dead.

—Crit Davis has about completed the addition to his track, making it a full mile and the grade on the back stretch much easier.

—Rev. Joe Young preached at the Methodist church Monday night and will probably continue through the week.

—An Act has passed the legislature to divide the town in wards, which will be done. Harrodsburg is always trying to imitate Danville in everything.

—Bob Turner, white, and Bud Reed, colored, got into a fight on Main street Sunday. Reed cut at Turner several times before Turner got mad, but when he did he knocked Reed down with a rock and proceeded to wipe the street up with him. Both were lodged in jail and on Monday tried before Judge Cardwell and fined $5 each.

—Walking down street Monday I met an old knob man with a letter, who asked me to read it for him, as he was unable to do so himself. I succeeded in reading only one sentence, when he seized it and ran. It began: "If you don't bring that helter back you stole and sold I'll have you arrested."

—The new Southern Methodist church here was completed last week. It cost the members something over $10,000. It is a beautiful red brick with lecture-room on one side connected by folding doors so that all can be thrown into one when necessary. The building is heated with a furnace and lighted by electricity. The Methodists are truly proud of their house of worship, as it is decidedly the handsomest and best arranged church building in the town. It was dedicated Sunday by Bishop Hendricks, of Kansas City. A number of prominent ministers were present, among them Dr. Joe Young, of Louisville, who preached in the afternoon. The Bishop took for his text, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." He spoke for an hour or more, after which he made the announcement that a debt of $1,850 yet remained on the church and after that was raised he would dedicate it to Christ. In a few minutes nearly $2,200 was subscribed. It was through the untiring efforts of Rev. F. S. Pollitt that the church was built and he deserves great credit for his work.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—After an exciting debate the Princeton Presbytery at Somerville, Ind., decided to allow ruling elders to continue to use tobacco.

—Rev. J. M. Evans' series of meetings at the C. & O. road from Vanceburg to Catlettsburg, resulted in 80 additions.—Paris Kentuckian.

—The Rev. D. L. Moody observes that he doesn't believe the Angel Gabriel himself could come down and hold the attention of a congregation that had been busy reading the Sunday papers. Brer Moody is right, unless Gab could do better than the average pulpit orator.

—At the second-hand book stores of this city one sees dozens of copies of a once famous book, "Without Script." It can be bought for 10 cents and most of the copies are comparatively new and unthumbed. This is the "Life of Geo. O. Barnes, the Mountain Evangelist," which attracted so much attention a few short years ago and which found ready sale at $5 per copy.—Louisville Post.

—The preservation of the statute of the Virgin Mary when everything else was destroyed in the tornado-wrecked Church of the Sacred Heart at Louisville is considered a miracle by the Catholics, who view it with feelings of reverential admiration. There have been several instances of the wonderful preservation of these statutes. The Johnstown flood swept away a fine church and its magnificent furnishings, but the statue of the Virgin Mary in an alcove near the altar was left standing unharmed, tho' the water at one time entirely covered it.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

—Both Houses have passed a bill extending the terms of the councilmen just elected in Danville to two years.

—The House passed the Senate bill to pay Commonwealth's attorneys $2,500 in lieu of all fees by a vote of 56 to 32.

—W. B. Smith's bill allowing sheriff's only one guard for each prisoner conveyed to the penitentiary or from one county to another, unless the affidavit of the judge and two reputable citizens that more are needed, passed the House.

—During the recent fight in the House over the Commonwealth's attorney bill, Mr. Warren, of Lincoln county, was its most persistent champion and that his efforts were appreciated some resolutions from the Commonwealth's attorneys' caucus testify. These resolutions pay a graceful tribute to Dick Warren and create the county of Lincoln into a Congressional district, with Mr. Warren as the perpetual representative.—Frankfort cor. C-J.

—The Middlesboro spring sale of town lots will occur May 26-31.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL and the democracy of Lincoln county beg leave to offer a suggestion to the democracy of the State. The need for new and younger blood for auditor's place on our ticket is urgent. A clean, strong, pure man is also and of course wanted. We offer for this place Richard C. Warren, the present representative of Lincoln county. He is all we have indicated, and more. He will add strength to the ticket. He will give both dignity and dash to the canvass. He will make a capital officer when elected. He is a democrat without fear and without reproach. We have no authority from Mr. Warren for making this suggestion, but we know him well. While a modest man, he is no stranger to honorable ambition. While he is no hunter after preferment, neither will he shrink responsibility when it comes in the shape of duty. We answer for him. What say the people and the press?

HELEN GOGGAR, the prohibition lecturer, who ought to have her name changed to Helen Blazes, created a church row in Bloomington, Ind., by saying in an address: "I have more respect for a saloon-keeper, yes, for the devil, hoof and horns, than for a minister who does not vote the prohibition ticket." A leading preacher took exceptions to the silly prattle of this short-haired, he-woman and denounced both her and her ideas. Some of the members sided with the woman and a split was imminent, but on the vote being taken the preacher was handsomely sustained. The prohibitionists are nothing if not bulldozers and it is refreshing to see them run across a preacher once in a while that has the courage to act as he pleases and not be forced to support a lot of cranks and cranky ideas.

THE NEW YORK SUN, which is never so happy as when saying something mean politically about Grover Cleveland, fires away at his personal appearance when it runs out of other matter. Its last effort is directed at his increasing obesity, which is, it alleges, becoming alarming to his friends. It says: "It is doubtful if the papers have given a fair idea of the extraordinary change which has come over the Ex-President of the United States. He goes to a Baptist church on 57th street every Sunday, and the congregation there has watched his visible increase in size with sentiments bordering on amazement. At present the fat of his neck lies over the collar of his coat in three heavy folds."

It has been known by his friends here for some time that he would do so, but this is the first public declaration of his intention. The Courier-Journal says: Prof. George Hunt, of Fayette county, has announced himself a candidate for superintendent of public instruction, subject to the action of the democratic party, of which he has been a consistent, life-long supporter. Mr. Hunt was for years a member of the faculty of Georgetown College, and afterward president of Bethel College. He is recognized as one of the ablest Baptist ministers, having served some of the most influential churches in the State as pastor. Still he has maintained an intimate connection with educational affairs.

WITHOUT regard for any consideration of justice and solely because might is right with the miserable mob which composes the majority in Congress, the republicans have given Hon. George D. Wise's seat to Mr. Waddell, a very smooth bore. The contest was from the 3d Virginia district, which comprises the city of Richmond. We knew Waddell when he used to be a democrat, but he went off with Mahone and repudiation and finally found his level in the republican party, which in Richmond is composed for the most part of negroes.

It is always the case that a lock is put on the stable after the horse is stolen. There were only two cyclone policies in Louisville previous to the recent storm, but since there has been a heavy demand for such insurance. The risks are taken at about 1 per cent. As cyclone like lightning never strikes twice in the same place, this money might be saved and given to the poor, who have already suffered.

THE BARBOURVILLE NEWS has taken on a new lease of life. It is now ably conducted by Alexander C. Thompson, who to judge from his name is as good a Campbellite as he is an editor. The "patent" feature has been discarded and it is now all home print and beautifully done at that. It is just the kind of a paper one would expect to see in a "boom" town.

THE LEGISLATURE has passed a whipping post bill for Graves county, although it made short work of the one which would have been effective in the State at large. We should like, however, to know of our $5-a-day statesmen if such a law is good one for Graves, why not for the other 118 counties?

HON. SAMUEL J. RANDALL died Sunday at his home in Washington, after an illness of two years' duration, and which began with an attack of the gout. He was born in Philadelphia in 1828 and his life was nearly entirely spent in the service of his country. He was first elected to Congress in 1863 and since then he has been regularly returned. For two terms he was Speaker, during which he won the admiration of both sides for his fairness, ability and dignity. Though not in accord with his party on the tariff question, Mr. Randall was a tried and true democrat, and the South owes him a lasting debt of gratitude for the part he took for her in the dark days of reconstruction. He was a man of broad intellect and a statesman every inch. The whole country mourns over his loss, which is truly a National calamity.

THE LOUISVILLE TRUTH contains a long letter purporting to be from Pope, the teller who skipped with $50,000 of a Louisville bank's funds, which makes pretty good reading. He claims to have given up riotous living and that he intends to pay the bank dollar for dollar, with interest. Most of such thieves pretend to have the laudable ambition to return the funds they have stolen, but some how they never do. As is usual in such cases, he claims that he was about as badly sinned against as sinning. When he left Louisville he took the express over this division to Knoxville with his moustache cut off and wearing a red wig. He went on to Florida and sailed on a gulf steamer, but he gives no clue to his whereabouts now.

THE KENTUCKY RADS who thought when Harrison was elected that all they had to do was to open their little mouths and the crumbs from the governmental table would fall right in, are realizing their mistake and many of them are getting ravenously hungry. This is demonstrated all over the State but no where more fully than in Covington, where 14 able-bodied men, who ought to be mauling rails or driving street cars, are contesting for the post-office. At one time a majority of these fellows would not have given a nickel to have had a cabinet position or a foreign post guaranteed them.

GOV. HINDMAN doesn't seem to take much stock in Judge Morrow's assertion that he will in no event be a candidate for Congress in the 11th. He said to the Tattler of the Louisville Times: "I am pretty certain from what I hear that Hon. T. Z. Morrow will be a candidate for the republican nomination, and if he is, Congressman Finley will have a race on his hands to get the nomination of his party. Morrow is popular with the republicans and besides that he is a brother-in-law of W. O. Bradley, who would add greatly to his strength."

MRS. THOMPSON, who has been postmaster at Louisville for 12 years, is an applicant for reappointment to the next four years beginning in May. She has made a good official and when women can fill such positions creditably we like to see them honored. We are no "mummers" in any sense of the term. For a diagram of the quoted word call on or address Hon. John W. Lewis, of Washington county.

It is understood that Judge Durham has decided to accept the position of cashier in the new State Bank at Lexington, which necessitates his withdrawal from the race for Auditor. The notice of his candidacy has inspired much favorable comment and he will have the satisfaction in his retirement of reading hundreds of compliments of his honesty, integrity and faithfulness to public trust.

THAT clever hotel man, Mr. Thomas H. Mulligan, who has held the position of chief clerk at the Galt House for many years in a highly satisfactory manner to the traveling public, will become manager of the Louisville Hotel May 1. The stockholders exhibit much hard sense in the selection.

AN editor cowed a Georgia legislator at Elberton, Saturday. The legislator, although elected on the prohibition ticket, made a habit of getting drunk, and deserved the castigation. Like many others, he is one of those prohibitionists who want to prohibit everybody but themselves.

THE SENATE has agreed to adjourn finally, May 10th, but the House is disposed to put off the sad event to the per diem drawers even further into the future. It seems to be worse than pulling eye-teeth for the average legislator to give up that $5 a day.

THE DEMOCRATS of Rhode Island have elected 57 members of the legislature, giving them 7 majority on joint ballot and insuring the selection of a democratic governor and other State officials. Rhode Island democratic! "Well I wish I may be jumped up!"

—Some women at Oakland, Cal., became insane on account of the prediction of the crank Erickson, that an earthquake would swallow up that city, San Francisco, Chicago and Milwaukee last week.

—A remarkable operation for consumption has taken place before the Surgical Congress at Berlin. The anterior chest wall and the lower wing of the affected lung were removed and the heart could be seen beating in the cavity of the chest. The patient is doing well and the congress declares that consumption is now curable.

—Senator Hawley says he expects to be succeeded in the senate by a democrat; Senator Blair says he expects to be succeeded by a democrat, and it is a foregone conclusion that the next U. S. Senator chosen in Rhode Island will be a democrat, while John L. Palmer is a little apter to be elected senator from Illinois next year than anybody else. With such a prospect before them it is not strange that rotten boroughs at the far west are admitted as States in the Union and that two senatorships from Montana are stolen.—Louisville Times.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—The series of services conducted at the Christian church by Rev. W. C. Tharp closed last Thursday night with an addition to the church of 28. Several who joined were old men and considered by some as hard cases as far as religion is concerned, and it speaks much praise for Mr. T. and there is much rejoicing among their friends.

—Judge M. J. Durham has fully made up his mind to accept the cashiership of the new Central Bank at Lexington. People here express much surprise, as they thought he had come here to stay, having built a beautiful house and surrounded in every way to be comfortable and happy. Danville loses an influential citizen in the judge and in Mrs. Durham an elegant lady.

NOTICES of the election to take the sense of the voters of the Stanford and Turnersville precincts on the question of subscribing $20,000 to the capital stock of the Cumberland River Railroad for the purpose of securing the right-of-way, have been posted. The date is May 3d, and the proposition seems dead sure of carrying.

WE see from the Lexington papers that our friend and ex-countyman, James C. Bryant, has bought out his partner, Mr. Overstreet, in the drug business at Lexington and will run it alone. Jim is a capital business man, as his upward course shows, and we glad to know that he is getting to be a mighty solid one too—a sort of money devil, so to speak.

THE hop given by Prof. C. C. Carson's dancing class was attended by 20 or more couples, who enjoyed themselves very heartily till the hands of the town clock were pointing mighty close to 3 A. M. It was the first appearance of many of the participants upon a waxed floor, but most of them "performed" admirably and did honor to themselves and their teacher.

THE jurors in the Toy Teeters case for the murder of Will Allen Baugh said that they were prevented from bringing in a verdict for murder because the instructions said that to constitute it there must be malice aforethought and as the men had been in such good humor with each other and had never met before that night, there could be no "malice aforethought," as one of them expressed it. They thought that to constitute malice there must be an ill-feeling for weeks and perhaps months, but the Court of Appeals has decided that it may be formed in an instant. In fact, when there is a killing without cause, as in this case, the law implies malice. The jury also say that so far as there was proof to the contrary, the negro might have been as good as any in the county. Certainly no man on the jury knew whether he was or not!

AFTER remaining out till nearly noon Friday, the jury in the Toy Teeters case brought in the astonishing verdict of 21 years in the penitentiary. It is hard to imagine anything less than a life sentence for such a murder, but 12 unbiased men on their oaths have decided otherwise and it is not our purpose to condemn their verdict, tho' it is being generally done by those who think death in any form too good for the murderer. Immediately on receipt of the verdict Judge Morrow sentenced the prisoner and in less than half an hour he was in charge of Sheriff Newland on the train for Lexington, this action being thought necessary to prevent a mob from inflicting vengeance upon him. It is understood, though the jury said they agreed not to say how they stood, that at first 4 were for murder and 8 for manslaughter. The next vote stood two for murder and 10 for manslaughter and finally the two murder men yielded and agreed to a verdict of 21 years.

CIRCUIT COURT adjourned Saturday, after a three weeks' session. There was no civil case of much importance tried and the criminal business was not very heavy. Mit Embry for stealing money from the till of R. Zimmer got two years, Tom Wren for murder was let off with a like verdict while Teeters, as told elsewhere, was very proud to get off with 21 years.

TOM Wren at first thought he wanted a new trial, and his attorney, Mr. Bobbitt, went to the trouble to get the new testimony in shape upon which to base an application, but after studying the matter over and realizing that he would have to remain six months more in jail and then probably get a severer verdict, he wisely concluded to let well enough alone. So he will go with the others to Frankfort Thursday.

THE sale of Judge M. C. Santley's place to Miss Mary Varnon has been fully consummated. The price is $3,250.

IN response to the inquiry whether or not the legislature has passed an Act against seining, we will state that so far as we have seen it has not.

A COMPANY, in which are several Stanford men and quite a number from Danville, is preparing to boom Jellico, which is in the centre of the finest coal anywhere.

THE weather has been delightful for more than a week and farmers and gardeners have been humping themselves. The prediction for to-day is decidedly cooler, with local showers.

THE Frankfort Capital, which seems so anxious for another production of "Happy Jack," is referred to the first installment of an epistle from him on our first page, which is more sentimental than humorous.

DR. CARPENTER, assisted by Drs. Frye and Price, performed the remarkable operation Saturday of cutting out a section of the necrosed backbone of Charley Baker, a negro boy 12 years of age. It was very successful and the patient is improving.

MR. J. B. LETCHER is agent for "The World's Type Writer," a valuable machine in business, professional or personal correspondence, which he sells at the low rate of $15. He has already sold a number in town and it is bound to take wherever introduced.

THE great sale of lots in the Mt. Vincent addition will be held to-day and tomorrow. Tickets at one fare for the round trip, good till the 20th returning, will be sold at all stations on the Knoxville division to-day to those who wish to attend. From all we can gather, Mt. Vincent offers the best chance for profitable investment of any of the mountain towns.

MR. S. J. EMBRY bought a mule from a darkey a few days ago that he is not exactly satisfied with. There was a cut on one of the mule's legs and thinking that was the only flaw he bought him for $90 and considered him a bargain. The next morning he discovered while bridling his new purchase that the mule was stone blind. Mr. Embry is considerably worried over the transaction and is being teased not a little by his friends.

THE dwelling on Mr. J. W. Powell's farm was burned Friday. He had rented the place to James Harper and as the house was not included in the rental it was unoccupied. Mr. Harper and several of his hired men built a fire on Friday to warm their dinners and in a few minutes the house was discovered to be in a blaze. The efforts to extinguish it proved futile and it was soon in ashes. The loss is thought to be about $2,000, with $1,000 insurance.

"How do you like the verdict?" said an I. J. man to Toy Teeters as he stood with hand cuffs on waiting to be borne away from home and friends for 21 years. "Oh, I am pretty well satisfied," said he with a laugh. He did not seem to realize his condition or to think of the dreadful murder he had committed. In fact, notwithstanding he has not a bad face, there is little doubt that he is much removed from a brute. The two negro girls, Ellen Jones and Birdie Stigall, who figured in the case, thinking that a highland mob might want to get hold of them, have skipped for parts unknown and it is hoped that they will remain there.

THE prohibitionists advertised to hold a public meeting here Saturday afternoon, but so slim a number of the faithful showed up that they did not care to try to spread themselves out over the court house benches, so "hid out" somewhere and held a pow-wow as the report in another column seems to indicate. The consensus of opinion of the little handful assembled was that "the party" should nominate candidates for county offices and a committee to see who could be gotten to lead so forlorn a hope was appointed to report to a meeting to be held here May County Court. Let them nominate. The democracy has presented a splendid ticket, is in good fighting trim and able to down any and all opposition.

SERIOUS CUTTING.—Dr. J. G. Carpenter was called to Barbourville Sunday to see John King, whose mother, Mrs. Barker, lives at Crab Orchard. King was seriously cut Saturday night by a fellow named John Mayhew. It seems that a social club had been formed at Barbourville, to which King belonged. Mayhew had tried to join, but he was blackballed on three occasions. He blamed King for it and Saturday night he swore he would have revenge. Arming himself with a huge knife, he went to church where King was and called him out. He began to abuse King, who said that he was a friend of Mayhew, and did not want to fight. This made Mayhew more hostile and finally King agreed to fight him if he would lay down his arms. Just then they were parted, but after Mayhew was released and while friends were holding King, he slipped up to him and buried his knife in his neck, face and side. The latter wound is serious, and while the bowels may not have been cut, it has produced peritonitis and may kill the man. King has made many friends in Barbourville, as was shown by 200 or more people calling on him Sunday. Mayhew is in jail and it is hoped that he will suffer seriously for his cowardly deed.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

A 9-year-old boy and a wee girl of 13 eloped from Louisville to Jeffersonville to get married, but license was of course refused them. The clerk ought to have laid them across his knee and spanked them well.

—On May 22d, Miss Susie Preston, a daughter of the late Gen. William Preston, and Gen. Draper, a millionaire manufacturer, who lives near Boston, will be united in marriage, the wedding taking place in Louisville.

—Gentlemen of elegant leisure who are matrimonially inclined should take notice of that "educated and accomplished young lady of Potoskey, Mich., who has split 10 cords of wood with her own hands" in the last winter. If docile and good tempered, she might be very useful around the house.

—Considerable talk took place here Tuesday afternoon when the news came this way of the marriage of Mrs. Sallie Wakefield, widow of the late Mark Wakefield, Esq., of this city, to a Mr. Caldwell, of New York. The marriage took place at Shelbyville, Tuesday morning, and the bride and groom left immediately for New York.—Advocate.

—On Thursday, April 3, there occurred at the residence of Mr. Geo. R. Beasley, in the eastern part of the city, a most pleasant affair in the shape of a wedding, the contracting parties being Mr. Frank L. Austin and Miss Hallie D. Beasley. The bride is a most charming and cultured lady, formerly of Lancaster, but who for sometime, with her father's family, has been a resident of the Marvelous City. Mr. Austin, a native of Louisville, but for some time a resident of this place, is a most estimable young man, who numbers his friends by the score.—Middlesboro News.

—Rev. E. R. Harrison, Presiding Elder of the Bowling Green conference district, died at his home in Franklin of typhoid pneumonia.

—Vincent Boreing, A. E. Richards, John Bennett, O. H. Harrison, John D. Harris, C. D. Chenault and J. S. Collins have formed a corporation for the purpose of booming Richmond.
